Due to unanticipated demands upon his time, Mr. Veasey has found it impossible to put into shape for publication more than the one paper published in December. There will be ten or more further installments in his series on the Law of Oil and Gas. It is fully expected that a number of these will appear in next year's volume.

A Reporting Idea that Saves Money

IT IS reassuring in this time of industrial uncertainty and high prices to know that the decisions of the courts of last resort may still be had at a very moderate cost.

This is due to the group plan of publishing reports, conceived and adopted many years ago by the West Publishing Company, whereby the forty-eight states are separated into seven groups, and each group covered by a single reporting publication.

It will afford us pleasure to give you complete information concerning this set, including our attractive installment terms of payment.

Legal Bibliography

The Citation Phase

An interesting book, devoted exclusively to this important subject, has been prepared at great expense. A copy is yours for the asking

You can take the drudgery out of your research work by following the fundamental rules laid down in this book. It covers brief-building and brief-testing. Nearly fifty years of development in a specialized field of legal research have provided the basis of this work

Whether your library consists of one book or a thousand books this work will point the way to new standards of efficiency and economy in dealing with your briefing problems

The Dean Says:

"I always tell my boys to buy their Codes and practice books first, of course. Then I tell them to buy a set that will give them a general survey of the law—even if they have to borrow money to do it. Then, as soon as possible, to get State reports and annotated reports and digests—but a young lawyer needs from the start a book from which he can get a text treatment of the law on any subject that may come up, with reference to the leading decisions. For this purpose I know of nothing that is as good as R. C. L."

HE WAS REFERRING TO Ruling Case Law

Just completed in 28 volumes under alphabetical arrangement by subject.

An up-to-date textbook of the law under all headings from A to Z.

A descriptive booklet will be sent on request together with a quotation of convenient terms. It costs nothing to get the facts.

We Invite Lawyers To Use Our Records

MOST corporation lawyers are familiar with our reprint, What Constitutes Doing Business. But many do not realize that this represents only a small part of the information on domestic and foreign corporations we are prepared to furnish members of the bar — without charge or obligation.

Our accumulated records and precedents relating to all forms of corporate organizations, to the taxing of corporations, to the requirements of the various states with respect to “doing business,” and to many other questions constantly before the corporation lawyer — all of these are open to members of the legal profession.

We invite you to use them freely whenever occasion demands.

Zoline's Federal Criminal Law and Procedure

By
Elijah N. Zoline

OF THE NEW YORK BAR

Author of
"Federal Appellate Jurisdiction and Procedure"

THIS treatise, containing an introduction by the Hon. Henry Wade Rogers, Judge of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals, for the Second Circuit, formerly President of Northwestern University and Dean of the Schools of Law of Yale and Michigan Universities, and written by an author whose reputation as a federal practitioner is second to none, will, we believe, be eagerly received by the legal profession.

The extension of federal power in recent years to matters heretofore wholly within the control of the States, and the passage of so many new acts virtually embracing all forms of human endeavor and industry in addition to the many thousands of federal offences heretofore existing, carrying with them, as they do, heavy fines and penalties, furnish at this time great reason for a book on Federal Criminal Procedure, wherein the liabilities, rights, privileges and immunities of a person accused of crime in the courts of the United States, and the relative jurisdictions of the Federal and State courts in criminal cases are clearly defined and set forth.

According to a report of the Department of Justice, the number of criminal cases commenced in the Federal Courts in the year 1919 was 47,443.

Alumni Legal Directory

This department has been established in pursuance of suggestions from several quarters that such a Directory would prove both interesting and profitable, it being thought that alumni who have legal business in other places would prefer to employ fellow alumni if their addresses were known. Names are inserted at the rate of $1.75 per year (eight numbers). The figures following the name indicate the college year.
